Ganga Expressway

A mega expressway project spanning 594 km across Uttar Pradesh, connecting Purvanchal to western UP. Construction began in 2018

Other planned expressways under development

Operational Expressways:

Agra-Lucknow Expressway:

The Agra–Lucknow Expressway is a 302 km, six-lane (expandable to eight) expressway connecting Agra with Lucknow. Built by UPEIDA and inaugurated in 2016 by then Chief Minister Akhilesh Yadav of the Samajwadi Party, it has reduced travel time between the two cities to about 3.5–4 hours.

Key features include flyovers, underpasses, service lanes, toll plazas, and a 3.3 km airstrip in Sultanpur for Indian Air Force emergency landings. It boosts trade, tourism, and regional connectivity, passing through districts like Firozabad, Mainpuri, Etawah, Kannauj, Kanpur, Hardoi, and Unnao.

The expressway is a major link in Uttar Pradesh's growing network of high-speed corridors, promoting economic growth and rural development.

Industrial Development Along Expressways

UPEIDA is developing industrial corridors along major expressways to turn highways into growth engines. These focus on textile parks to revive traditional industries and create jobs, food processing units near farm belts to add value and support farmers, logistics and warehousing hubs to boost trade and e-commerce, and electronics and defense industries, especially in Bundelkhand, under the Defense Corridor initiative. Together, these corridors aim to generate employment, attract investment, and ensure balanced regional growth across Uttar Pradesh.

Defence corridor to fuel India's strategic might

Awanish Kumar Awasthi

India's defence sector is undergoing a historic revolution, with the Uttar Pradesh Defence Industrial Corridor (UPDIC) playing a pivotal role in driving indigenous manufacturing, economic growth, and strategic autonomy.

From the vantage point as the former CEO of UPEIDA, the nodal agency for UPDIC, the defence corridor is far more than an industrial park — it is a tactical initiative reshaping India's defence manufacturing landscape.

Envisaged by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and subsequently announced in 2018, UPDIC covers six key nodes — Aligarh, Agra, Kanpur, Jhansi, Chitrakoot, and Lucknow. Since then, under Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's visionary leadership, the corridor
